

69%

69% of organizations cite that "implementing stringent security guidelines and code review processes can slow developers significantly."

- McKinsey survey

Enterprises must balance data democratization with data security to maximize business insights while ensuring privacy and compliance.

Challenge

- Balancing the dual mandate of complying with regulations and making data widely available
- Recreation of policies and manual implementation can significantly slow down process

Solution

- Consistent data governance, security, and compliance across all data services for maximum data visibility, protection, and audibility
- Ability to leverage existing policies simplifies the administration of data access controls

- Democratize trusted data to accelerate data-driven insights with centralized, fine-grained data access control through single pane visibility across hybrid- and multi-clouds
- Eliminate recreation of access policies to accelerate digital transformation

Increase

Security

Business Agility

Cost-Efficiency

... with Unified Data Access Governance at

PRIVACERA

Visit privacera.com to learn more